A bit about the ren pricing policy

ren, or Real Estate Newcastle, is a respected, established office offering outstanding property services.

For over 30 years the ren sales team has taken great pride in achieving an exceptional result for sellers, whilst being professional and helpful to purchasers.

We believe in transparency in relation to pricing property, and back our ability to know what a home or parcel of land is worth.

Pricing a property accurately means less stress and an easier transition to your next home.

Purchasers also appreciate this honesty, knowing immediately whether or not a property is within their budget. The end result is a greater number of qualified buyers in the picture.

We do auction property when necessary and again aim for a positive outcome for both the vendor and purchasers.

The ren sales team listen, and care about your plans and the experience you have when selling.

We deliver results people tell their family and friends about.
