Inside, the main living and dining spaces are beautifully proportioned and filled with natural light, enhanced by high ceilings and classic VJ-panelled walls that give the home its timeless character. Polished timber flooring and period detail further add to the sense of warmth and authenticity throughout.

The home features three well-proportioned bedrooms, all positioned close to the central bathroom, making it ideal for a range of lifestyles. The kitchen is neatly presented with good bench and storage space, and offers a great foundation for those who may wish to enhance or personalise over time.

Flowing from the rear, a timber deck extends the living space outdoors and overlooks the backyard, creating a peaceful place to relax or entertain. Just off the deck, a dedicated study provides a quiet work-from-home space or reading retreat, enjoying the same leafy outlook across the garden.

All of this is just moments from local parks, cafés, transport, and everyday amenities, in a suburb that continues to be prized for its village feel and proximity to the city. This is a home with genuine charm, a lovely sense of calm, and plenty of future appeal.
