Commercial Land

Location, Location, Location

When it comes to light industrial and commercial precincts and when location feeds through to on the ground cost savings, this property should not be overlooked.

All the costly land preparation has been done, with a perimeter spoon drain to complement the levelling and ensure no water remains even after the heaviest rainfalls to minimise business interruption.

From an asset protection point of view, all the underground storm water piping has been completed.

The property has full perimeter fencing already in place, two wide driveways to ensure easy access for trucks and vehicles and all footpaths have been completed.

Future development approvals are in place to avoid time consuming and costly local council processes.
