From the moment you step through the gate, there is a sense of privacy and security that is hard to come by.

Inside, warm timber accents run throughout, with original architraves and window frames lending mid century character to the home. Downstairs, the open living and dining area flows together effortlessly, creating a warm and cohesive space to relax or entertain. A feature beam and a staircase leading up to the bedrooms add character and definition throughout.

The kitchen has been updated including a freestanding gas stove and ample bench space, making it a practical and easy space to cook in from day one. A separate laundry with handy storage and access to a powder room adds further convenience to the ground floor.

Upstairs, two well proportioned bedrooms offer comfortable accommodation, with one currently configured as a home library/retreat. The bathroom retains its original charm, with feature floral tiling and a full bathtub offering a touch of nostalgic character.
