Old World Glamour meets Inner-City Sophistication with Capti

The magic of Sydney's CBD skyline creates a mesmerising backdrop to the magnificently renovated interiors of this Art Deco treasure in the landmark Macleay Regis. Built in 1938 and inspired by New York's distinguished Rockefeller Apartments, the grand full services building has been meticulously restored and stands proud as one of Australia's finest Art Deco buildings. Holding a prized setting high on level eight, this light-filled 85sqm approx. apartment gazes across the green tree tops to the city skyline taking in Centrepont Tower and St Marys Cathedral. Huge windows frame the ever-changing vista and bathe the interiors in natural light with parquet floors anchoring the interiors and French doors opening to a signature cantilevered balcony. Located at the quiet end of Macleay Street, this elegant inner-city apartment is footsteps to a world of art, fashion and entertainment.
