By Appointment.

The site also features the iconic 'sky needle' from Expo 88' as one of it's key design elements. Once owned by Steve Ackerie who moved it from South Brisbane to his head office in Emondstone Street this piece of Brisbane history is located at your future home's front door!

Flowing from the property's entry is a spacious open-plan living and dining area, which steps away to a covered balcony that provides suburban skyline views. Entering the master you will find a breath taking en-suite that has been finished to the highest quality throughout as well as the room being complimented by ducted air-conditioning and plush carpet. A well-appointed main bathroom services two additional bedrooms which are fitted with built-in robes and one of which featuring its own private balcony which offers views of Mt. Cootha and it's surrounding mountain ranges.
